Warren 1912

Now Ready to Make Deliveries

The Warren Has "Made Good" wherever it has been sold—and it will continue to make good because every Warren has back of it a service—a factory service and a dealer service that is unique in Automobile history.

A Champion Car

and you will remember that it established its title as one of the staunchest, fastest, best built stock cars in America. You will remember that it holds two official American records for five and ten miles in the 161 to 230 piston displacement class—that it went through the racking, tearing strain of that famous 24-hour race at Los Angeles on April 9th last, covering 1167 miles in 24 hours without a single motor adjustment or tire change, establishing a world record for mileage and speed.

Recall the dash of the Warren "Wolverine"—a thirty horse-power car traveling from Detroit to New York City and back in the dead of winter — over a thousand miles through snow and ice: the same car later crossing the continent, doing over forty thousand miles and wearing out three sets of drivers and corFavorite in "Auto Capital Ask the people of Detroit-where sixty per cent of the world's automobiles are made-what they think of the Warren, and they will point to the large number of Warren cars on Detroit streets and tell you that for the season of 1911 Detroiters gave the Warren preference. They will tell you that the Company is ultra-conservative. That it has never failed to meet a promise; that it never made a promise it didn't know in advance it could keep. That it has never sacrificed quality for low price—has never hesitated to spend money on improvement-has been quick and eager to take advantage of every practical advance in automobile engineering, but always adhering to the proven, the tried-out, the practical.

They will tell you that this policy of refinement and improvement has brought their cars a reputation for economy. They will tell you that the factory is managed by practical automobile men, who know the automobile business thoroughly.

Warren Owners Boost Ask any Warren owner what he thinks of his car. He will tell you that it has made good-that it is capable of duplicating any record made by any Warren on track or speedway. Keep in mind the fact that the Warren has always made good—and you will appreciate why this 1912 announcement without adjectives or flourishes of any kind is of vital interest to everyone contemplating the purchase of an automobile. The Warren Company has always dealt in facts-it has never been bombastic-never claimed the earth-has always and everywhere fulfilled its staunchness, stability, quality, reliability, power and speed that distinguished Warren cars the past season, but added to these features is mechanical and detail refinement whereever possible. The 1912 motors are even more flexible, more eagerly responsive, more silent. All the valves are enclosed within an aluminum case, keeping the oil in and shutting out the dust, dirt and sand, contributing to durability. The springs in the 1912 cars are more flexible, more resilient—easier riding, because they are longer and wider, and each leaf thinner and of especially tempered spring steel, giving more strength with flexibility. The fine thing about the Warren proposition is that all cars come completely equipped.

Warren models for 1912 have the
